Dear Ron,

I am writing to let you know that I fully support your efforts to bring a public market to Portland. As a resident of Portland, I certainly think it would be a great addition to a city that values farmers and producers of local and sustainable foods. In addition, I have great interest from a business perspective. My experience with offering my products at local farmers markets has shown me that there could be great potential rewards of a permanent marketplace featuring local products.

Please continue to keep me abreast of your progress. I wish you all the best in making the James Beard Market a reality.

Sincerely,

Pamela Kraemer
